

GREG PETTY - Independent Candidate for Heathcote

MEDIA RELEASE 6 March 2011

Independent Candidate for Heathcote takes a look at job prospects in the Illawarra

Liberals false promises

Greg Petty, Independent candidate for Heathcote, knows how hard it is to get a job, so he responded immediately to the sad tale told by the Liberal candidate at the “meet the candidates night” last week organised by the Northern Illawarra Chamber of Commerce.

But now he’s left wondering about the Liberal candidate’s sincerity.

The tale told by Liberal Mr. Evans involved the harrowing story of a woman who’d been unemployed for 15 years.

Greg Petty, who started a business from the ground up in his mid 40s when he could not find alternative employment, immediately offered to interview the woman to fill a vacancy in his business.

Greg Petty is an Independent candidate who is passionate about his community, and sincere in his efforts to fix the unemployment crisis in the Illawarra.

He made an agreement with Mr. Evans to interview the lady, if he would privately provide her contact details.

Almost a week has passed, and the contact details have not been provided, Greg Petty is still concerned for the woman, and would like to honour his agreement.

“It seemed so genuine on the night, but now I’m beginning to wonder where this lady is, and how much genuine concern there is for her. Or was she just being used for political reasons?” asks Petty.

Mr. Petty is still waiting for the contact details.

The press is waiting to photograph the woman as she starts work for the first time in 15 years. But where is she?

Greg says, “This is why Independents are important, because they are responsive to their community, not to the party structure. An Independent is the community’s insurance that they will get sincere representation in government.”
